three-channel videoinstallation, 16 mm on DVD

"You'll miss what's gonna stay I" is a three-channel video installation resembling the interior of a club. Young people are standing in small groups, talking together, drinking and moderately move to the music. The situation alters by realizing that the distinct groups are trapped in their individual time spheres. Once in a while a girl in a red shirt trespasses the room and interrupts for a short instance the Möbius-like proceeding. We are watching a time void a frozen moment going nowhere.
